THIS IS HOW WE CAN BRING NATURE BACK TO OUR CITIES

Ever since the ancient Greek poet Theocritus wrote his pastoral idylls romanticizing rural life, people have been pondering how to build cities that are in concert with their natural surroundings. But with rates of urbanization growing exponentially around the world, the need for greener cities has never been more urgent. Fortunately, innovation and technology can help strike this long-elusive balance. Read more here.

WORLD MUST UNITE AGAINST 'PREVENTABLE TRAGEDY' OF OCEAN POLLUTION: UN CHIEF

UN chief reminded everyone of the major role the oceans have in everyday life, as the lungs of the planet, providing most of the oxygen that we breathe. "The oceans make our blue planet unique in our solar system - and not just visually," he said adding that they help regulate "the global climate and are the ultimate source of the water that sustains all life on Earth, from coral reefs to snow-covered mountains, from tropical rain forests to mighty rivers, and even deserts." "However," he continued "the ability of the oceans to provide their essential services is being threatened by climate change, pollution and unsustainable use." Read more here.

YOUNG PEOPLE MUST BE AT THE HEART OF GOVERNMENT PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

Young people must be at the heart of government plans for the future, the Commonwealth Secretariat has said at a UN meeting. Speaking at the 72nd Session of the United Nations General Assembly, the Commonwealth's Head of Social Policy urged decision-makers to involve youth advocates in investing for future generations. Sharing a powerful message from the Commonwealth Heads of Government meeting earlier this year in London, Layne Robinson said, "We must integrate young people at all stages of development planning". He also spoke of the need to support and celebrate the people who are working with young people through education, training and investment. Read more at here.

SPOTLIGHT INITIATIVE' CAN MAKE VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN A THING OF THE PAST, SAYS UN DEPUTY CHIEF

Addressing a leading forum on development in Brussels, known as European Development Days, Ms. Mohammed said that the joint Spotlight Initiative was a key element for making Global Goal 5 on women's empowerment, of the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda, a reality. Now in the third year of working towards the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), the forum this year is shining a spotlight on gender equality. "Without equality and empowerment, we will simply perpetuate today's paradigm: trying to address all the world's challenges with only half the world's assets," said UN Deputy Secretary-General Amina Mohammed in her opening remarks. FROM WHERE I STAND: "THE VOICES OF WOMEN AND GIRLS ARE COMPLETELY ABSENT IN WATER MANAGEMENT"

Dilera Mavlonova is only 16 years old, but she knows the importance of women's leadership in water management. After learning advocacy skills through a UN Women programme, she and her peers raised awareness about women's unequal burden to provide water for their homes in the village of Chek-Abad near the Kyrgyz-Uzbek border, where there is an unfolding water crisis. As a result, 124 women have joined local councils for water management, including in their executive bodies and committees that resolve conflicts over water. Before, there were only 13 women in these councils, and rarely in any decision-making roles. Read more here.

THE 67th DPI/NGO CONFERENCE

This Conference is an opportunity to discuss concrete ways to take the UN's people-centered mandate forward, in closer partnership with civil society. The re-positioned UN development system will offer a platform for non-governmental organizations (NGOs) to work more effectively with the UN to implement the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development - and to communicate and advocate for it.
